

A3 Communications Welcomes New Employees, Larry Sams and Chelsea Scott

COLUMBIA, SC (August 7, 2013) — A3 Communications, a leading information technology and communication services provider for the Southeast, has recently hired two new employees, Larry Sams and Chelsea Scott.

Larry Sams

Chelsea Scott

Sams has accepted the Project Manager role at A3 Communications' Atlanta, Georgia office. He has nearly 20 years of professional experience possessing skills in sales, quality control, communications, team building and project management. Past experience includes site supervision and project management positions for NetPlanner Systems. In this role, Sams was responsible for leading various sized projects including small corporate installations and major military-based solutions. At the same time, Sams managed work crews ranging in size from six to 50 team members across different states and cities, simultaneously. Sams will be taking on a similar role with A3 Communications – leading projects, ensuring quality and scheduling technicians. He is a graduate of Savannah State University's communication/business program.

Scott has over eight years of customer service, marketing, sales and inventory management experience and has been hired as the Office Manager for A3 Communication's Charleston office. Within her new role, Scott will overlook the Charleston office's administrative and clerical duties, such as member and data management, that further the productivity of her team. She studied psychology at both Trident Technical College and College of Charleston.

"We are excited to welcome Larry and Chelsea to our team. Both of their strong emphasis on customer service and leadership fit perfectly with A3 Communication's environment and business philosophies. With a new office manager and project manager on board, we look forward to serving even more organizations across the Southeast," said Brian Thomas, President of A3 Communications.
